

Substitute Specification

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The mobile device for powering, recharging and/or controlling a height-fixed electric appliance includes a first connection device which can co-operate with second connection device belonging to the electrically-operating appliance. The first connection device is disposed at the end of a stick or similar element housing linking mechanism which connects the first connection device to a control device, disposed at the other end of the stick or similar element.